

FATAL BLOWS ON THE HEAD.

The Killing of Walter Duval by Patrick Burke.

TESTIMONY BEFORE THE CORONER'S INQUEST TODAY—A FATAL AFFRAY ABOUT A PAYMENT OF FIVE CENTS—THE VERDICT HOLDS BURKE RESPONSIBLE.

The body of Walter alias "Pete" Duval, the colored blackhead who died from the effects of blows on the head alleged to have been inflicted by Patrick Burke, bartender at Ward's saloon, corner of 7th and L streets, as published in yesterday's Star, was kept in an ice-box at the morgue last night. Seamy Ford, a colored man employed in the saloon, and another negro named Wm. Warren were arrested yesterday afternoon and locked up as United States witnesses. Policeman Hood No. 67 of the sixth precinct was at Mrs. Duval's home yesterday before the boy died. The officer, being aware of the fact that the lad was dying, took his ante-mortem statement, which was substantially the same as published in yesterday's Star. In telling the officer of the trouble he had with "Red-headed Jim," the bartender, he struck him.

THE INQUEST. This morning Coroner Patterson held an inquest over the body at the sixth precinct station. The jury was composed of H. M. McElfresh, George W. Frasier, W. H. Ferguson, James C. Cusick, Bushrod Hoy and John W. Hayes. C. Maurice Smith, who appeared as counsel for the prisoner, occupied a seat at the head of the table. The prisoner was present to hear the testimony.

TESTIMONY OF AN EYE WITNESS. Wm. Warren, colored, who lives at No. 4 Goat alley, was the first witness. He testified that between 8 and 9 o'clock Monday evening a week ago he was with "Pete Ugly," as the deceased was called, and they went into Mr. Ward's saloon, corner 7th and L streets. Duval, deceased, said, called for a gill of gin and then said to the prisoner: "I paid you, didn't I?" The latter replied: "No; you know you didn't pay me." Duval said: "I know you will." Duval then said: "Yes, if I ain't paid you I will and you do nothing to me either. He then looked at the witness and said: "I know I ain't paid you; here's the money now." Witness then went and getting a drink of water from the bar, he returned with it. Witness thought they were fooling, as they often did, until the bartender came from behind him with a club and said: "You hit me across the crown of the head with that club, can't you take no playing?" (Witness knew the prisoner as Jim.) The prisoner did not seem to be disturbed by the blow.

When questioned by the coroner witness said that he did not hear Duval call Burke a "Red-head" or "Pete Ugly." Witness was given a gill of gin and two glasses, and witness took a drink with him. Witness said he was sober and did not remember the injured boy went out and returned with an officer, but Burke was not arrested.

Witness questioned by a juror witness said that Duval was called "Pete Ugly," but he did not know why, because they had nicknames for all the boys. They call me Slippery," he said.

In answer to questions suggested by Mr. Smith the witness said that the deceased did not strike the prisoner after the latter came from behind him. The witness had been in such a condition before he was struck to death and so for that reason he did not care to take part in the difficulty.

Maria Onalundro, colored, No. 1628 6th street northwest, testified that on the evening of the assault she was on 7th street and saw some quarreling in the saloon. She went and saw a white man tussling with a colored boy. The white man had a beer mallet in his hand. She heard the colored man say: "You better get out of here, or I'll kill you." Witness saw the colored boy stoop to pick up his hat, and while in that position she saw the white man strike him on the head with the mallet.

Witness cried: "Oh, it's a shame for all you men to stand there and see that man get beat up that way!" Philip S. Anderson, colored, No. 2213 7th street northwest, and Alfred Carter were examined without throwing any new light on the homicide.

SANDY FORD'S STORY. Sandy Ford was next called and testified that Duval and Warren came in the saloon on the night charged and called for a gill of gin. Witness waited on them. They talked about the five cents. Burke told Duval that if he didn't pay he would get somebody who would make Duval pay that way.

THE VERDICT HOLDS BURKE RESPONSIBLE. The jury, after about forty minutes' deliberation, returned a verdict "that the said Walter Duval came to his death about 11 o'clock a.m., July 29, from injuries to the head inflicted by a club or other blunt instrument in the hands of Patrick Burke."

The prisoner was thereupon committed to jail.

Warning to African Tourists. The State department is in receipt of a report from United States Consul Hollis, at Cape Town, Africa, suggesting that citizens of the United States contemplating a visit to the diamond diggings in that vicinity be warned of the danger of buying diamonds from others than licensed dealers. The illicit traffic in diamonds (the dealers being diggers and others who have secured the diamonds) is said to be the rough from the mines) grow to such dimensions that, in order to break it up, a law was passed, punishing the buyer of a stolen stone with a fine of $200,000. "Breakwater convention" in company with the vilest and lowest of criminals of all races.

Escaped from the Police Court. In the Police Court to-day the case of John Kelly was called when it was found that he had escaped. Kelly was a young man arrested by Sergeant Boyle on the charge of having stolen the horse and buggy of Dr. T. V. Hammond, called on at 2:30 p.m., on the 23d inst., and he did not deny the fact that he was the thief. He called from the cell there was a case of trial and he was directed to take a seat just within the door and the dock. It seems that while waiting he thought of a door which led from the hallway to the cellar, and quietly slipping into the cellar and thence by way of the water closet steps he reached the entrance and left the building. The police were at once notified.

Assault With Intent to Kill. This morning in the Police Court James, alias Michael Callahan, charged with an assault with intent to kill, was called. He was struck and knocked senseless by some unknown person. The case was sent to the grand jury; bonds $500.

Island Park at Historic Harper's Ferry. This beautiful family resort has been restored to its original attractiveness and the damage done by the late flood is being repaired. B. & O. R. Co. takes pleasure in announcing that on Thursday, August 1, the first section of the season will leave the B. & O. These personally conducted excursions are limited, each passenger holding a reserved seat. This arrangement obviates all crowding and confusion and secures the most desirable places for parties against the annoyance of being intruded upon, and is one of the "little tricks" originating with the B. & O. Round trip $1.50. Seats reserved in advance at 1301 Pennsylvania avenue without extra charge.

WITH THE CAVALRY.

On the Road from Camp Ordway to Washington.

A STAR MAN ACCOMPANIES LIEUT. BARBOUR'S COMPANY—FAREWELL TO THE CAMP—A BAD ROAD, BUT A GOOD TIME—FRASER FELTING AND SHEEP SHOOTING EN ROUTE.

The sun had barely commenced to streak the sky with the lighter gray tints when Camp Ordway awoke yesterday. The earliest riders were the members of troop A—the blue-and-yellow-clad cavalry boys. For a couple of hours they were hard at work cleaning their horses and packing up baggage. It was a busy time, and the men's ingenuity was taxed to the utmost to find room for the odds and ends they wanted to carry. The next morning the next number on the program, that is, the preparations for the march was complete. But little time was consumed in wrestling with the hash, which was the major portion of the breakfast. Some ate it and some did not, and when the last man had finished the troop was formed in the fort parade ground and ordered down to the river to water the horses.

Again, past the fort, the sentries and the long file of pack animals, the troops moved on to the exterior guard and camp. The march was a five-minute halt. The infantry, who were of course, going to the city, were called, and they went into the city, where they were to be joined by the rest of the troops. The march was a five-minute halt. The infantry, who were of course, going to the city, were called, and they went into the city, where they were to be joined by the rest of the troops.

THE HANDS OF LIEUT. BARBOUR'S WATCH POINTED to the hour of 8 when the order was given which wheeled the horses with their heads up and forward. Everybody turned to see the troop start. In front of the line stood Capt. Farmer, quartermaster of the second regiment, acting quartermaster of the camp, and one of the bluest of the most efficient of Gen. Ordway's cavalry aids. He waved his cap in farewell to the boys and they passed on up the muddy road, but through the camp of the first regiment they were met by the second regiment, which was also marching, and the two regiments were joined.

THE ROUTE WAS DOWN PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE and south A street to the corner of New Jersey avenue, and in that vicinity the cavalry remained until 4:30. Then they rode out to the front of the fort, where they were almost hungry, but in such style that the critics had nothing to say. At 7th street and Pennsylvania avenue there was another halt and the men were ordered to get out of their saddles and to get into the city.

THE PARADE. Thousands of people lined the streets and watched the soldier boys as they wheeled at the street-car junction and marched to 16th street. The band playing "Listen to My Tale," and the drummers, were enthusiastic and applauded, and when the parade was over everybody said it was a thorough success. The march was a triumph for the boys of the District of Columbia.

PERSONAL MENTION. Mrs. J. L. Nuber has left the city for a six weeks' sojourn at Newport, Del. Maj. and Mrs. O. E. Duffy will spend several weeks in Boston and the east.
